16th Annual Power Conference

The Creative Power of Social Work: Innovation, Intersection & Intervention

POWER 2019

February 28 - March 1, 2019
Eugene M. Hughes
Metropolitan Complex
Welcome to the 16th annual POWER Conference at Wichita State University! We are excited to invite social workers and other helping professionals to this hallmark event for your social work community. We are proud to continue the legacy of the excellent continuing education that POWER has been able to provide for years.

This year’s theme centers on the power of creativity – how is it that we not only think outside the box, but redefine the box into new shapes, purposes, and applications. This conference theme provides us the opportunity for learning in three areas:

- Innovation gives us the chance to look at new methods, ideas, and designs, to see how we can think differently for our important and unique practice settings.
- Intersection speaks to the heart of social justice, so central to the work we do, in order to see the interconnected nature of power, identity, and how these factors impact those who are most marginalized in society.
- Intervention provides the opportunity to advance our practice in new ways, with insights from those who are currently utilizing fresh and exciting applied techniques and approaches in the field.

Attendees have the opportunity to engage in one of our three-hour pre-conference sessions, focused on either diagnosis or ethics, as well as the main conference day. We’ve expanded our CEU offerings this year, so you can earn even more hours, and we are excited by the social event lined up for Thursday evening, as well. Mingle with your colleagues, meet our keynote, and have some fun with your own creative, hands-on activities with us!

POWER gives us the opportunity to connect together, grow together, and change the world together – this conference can help us be rejuvenated as practitioners, invigorated by new knowledge, and challenged with fresh perspectives. We are the passion and the heart of change, and always stronger together. There never has been a time where the strength and knowledge of our profession has been more needed. Let’s do this!

CONFERENCE OBJECTIVES

Participants will:

- Understand the importance of creativity in our helping professions.

- Explore new multilevel practice tools and skills for applying to diverse populations and practice settings.

- Analyze the complexities of intersectionality for social work populations in practice settings.
The second annual Pre-Conference has expanded to offer two sessions. Choose between earning three hours of ethics or diagnostics continuing education taught by two dynamic leaders in the field of social work.

Following the pre-conference, join us for the POWER Up! Conference Kick-off, a social event intended to spark your creativity, featuring Wichita's own Paint the Towne, a WSU community mixer, and a preview of our conference exhibitors.

1 - 4 p.m.
Pre-Conference Ethics Workshop

Social Work Ethics: The Professional Anchor in the Storm of Practice
Stacy Popejoy, LMSW

This workshop will provide participants with an in-depth analysis of the National Association of Social Workers Code of Ethics. With recent changes and revisions to the Code itself, as well as the changing landscape of social work practice, participants will be provided with an in-depth review of the current NASW Code of Ethics, case examples, and opportunities to brainstorm and address concerns.

1 - 4 p.m.
Pre-Conference Diagnostics Workshop

Calming Care: Supporting Those Who Have Experienced Trauma
Amber Jewell, LMSW

This presentation will focus on working through trauma and anxiety symptoms, PTSD, and other diagnostics, and provide hands-on tools that professionals can use for interventions. Participants will identify new and updated concepts of trauma and PTSD with at-risk individuals and youth in foster care, as well as review and practice three techniques that can help reduce trauma symptoms.

4 - 6 p.m.

Breakout Sessions #1
Choose one session. Sessions may be a one-hour hot topic or a two-hour expanded session.

1.1 Lego-Based Play Therapy
Ragan Snyder-Smith, LSCSW, LLC
In this workshop, participants will learn about Lego-based play therapy developed by Dr. Daniel LeGoff, an American psychologist. Participants will enhance their play therapy and clinical skills by learning Lego-based play therapy activities to use with clients with Autism, ADHD, anxiety, depression and other common disorders you see in schools. Participants of this workshop will gain a new perspective on how to implement Lego-based play therapy in their sessions with students.
This session is pending approval for two (2) hours of contact hours for professional diagnostics requirements.
Two-hour Expanded Session

1.2 She’s Not An Old Lady With Dementia; She’s My Mother
Carol Luttjohann, LMSW
During the four and one-half years Carol Luttjohann cared for her mother who had dementia, diabetes, and arthritis, she found many professionals they worked with only saw dementia. They did not see her mother. This has been her motivation to provide support to caregivers and to help educate people about caring for someone with dementia and especially on working with caregivers who are caring for their loved one with dementia.
Two-hour Expanded Session

1.3 Social Work in the Rural Physicians Clinic - Using the Can-Do Attitude!
Christy Kaufman, LMSW
Using the theme “Can-Do Attitude” this presentation will discuss how being a social worker in a rural primary care physician’s office can improve the overall health of the patients. Attendees will look at everything from using change talk to set goals, medication adherence and insurance resources to community networking.
Two-hour Expanded Session

1.4 Inside Imagination: The Power of Creative Arts in Prison
Benjamin Kreider, BSW
In our current context of mass incarceration creative arts programs provide a space for humanity and transformation. Drawing on experience facilitating theater, writing, and choir programs at the Hutchinson Correctional Facility, this presentation shares insights on the power and potential of arts programs for those who are incarcerated.
One-hour Hot Topic
10 - 10:50 a.m.

3.1 Chefin’ with the People: Social Working in the Kitchen
Jill Tomlonson, LBSW, MSW
Although Jill Tomonson is a licensed social worker with her master of social work degree, she is currently a kitchen manager and chef at a domestic violence shelter. The goal of this presentation is to share with the audience ways in which social work intervention can happen outside of a traditional office and look different than a typical therapeutic relationship.
One-hour Hot Topic

3.2 Don’t Break the Ice... Crush It
BreAnn Gilkey, LMSW
This presentation will provide an introduction to icebreakers and their purposes in social work practice. BreAnn Gilkey will share how ice breakers can be used as a teaching tool as well as a getting to know you tool, and will cover three areas of ice breakers: social educational and topical.

Breakout Sessions #3, continued.
Choose one session. Sessions may be a one-hour hot topic or a two-hour expanded session.

3.3 Innovation in HealthCare: Seeing Beyond the Bedside/Social Determinants
Alison Hodge, LMSW

Social Determinants show that care provided in the clinical setting account for merely 20% of our overall health leaving the remaining 80% to be impacted by behavior, environment and socioeconomic factors. We are challenged in healthcare to be innovative in order to make a difference. This session will look at case examples to explore what social determinants are and how to assess for them in a healthcare setting.

One-hour Hot Topic

3.4 Title to Be Determined
Julie Dreiling Hiett, MSW

Ms. Dreiling Hiett completed her MSW from Wichita State University. Currently she is the Practice Director, Consulting for Netsmart Technology. Her passion for her work stems from previous positions as a Special Education Social Worker, a Teen Moms Mentoring Program Coordinator, and a Child Victim Advocate. She provided individual and group therapy to elementary school children, maintained documentation and treatment plans, coordinated services with teachers, doctors, therapists and school administrators, district-wide trainer on Non Violent Crisis Intervention. Julie will present on creativity and innovation technology in social work.

12:30 - 1:30 p.m.
Keynote Presentation

The Struggle for Justice, Humanity, Enlightenment and Respect for Self and Others
Galyn A. Vesey, PhD, ASCW, Project Director, Research on Black Wichita

This keynote presentation will focus on creative schemes to build bridges for human enlightenment and social change by highlighting Dr. Vesey's social work journey, from his participation in the Dockum Drug Store Sit-Ins of 1958 to his direct practice experiences with seniors, state legislature, the Southern Poverty Law Center, and social work education. Attendees will leave feeling inspired for their future social work by learning from the past, understanding that the lessons of history inform us on how to make practice decisions for tomorrow.

1:40 - 2:30 p.m.
Breakout Sessions #4
Choose one session. Sessions may be a one-hour hot topic or a two-hour expanded session.

4.1 Photovoice
Amy Kalb, DSW, MSW
Dasha Shamrova, MSW, MPA

Photovoice is a creative method that utilizes the process of taking pictures to help describe, understand, and articulate an issue that a community, group, or individual is encountering. This tool is a catalyst to help people better reflect, discuss, and ultimately make and enact an action plan to create change. In practice settings, Photovoice has been used as an effective tool in advocacy, social change work, policy and program development, community and program needs assessments. Participants will be taught about this method and then given the opportunity to participate in their own photovoice experience.

Two-hour Expanded Session
4.2 Creating Powerful Change Through Coaching Models
Mariah Warden, LSCSW, LCAC, CCHT, ACC
The presentation will first focus on what coaching is, how it is different than psychotherapy, and how it can be integrated and utilized in a various professional settings. The presentation will then share specific ways to utilize coaching processes in clinical setting with clients, as a leadership development tool for supervisors and mentors in an administrative setting, and how to utilize coaching processes for personal development to become more effective in personal and professional life.
One-hour Hot Topic

4.3 Supporting Families of Children with Disabilities
Patricia Pepple, MSW, LCSW, LSCSW
Amanda Textor, MSW, LMSW, LCSW
A growing number of people with disabilities has increased the need for creative interventions to empower and support this vulnerable population. The Beacon Program at Children's Mercy Hospital serves as a medical home for children who are medically complex. Social workers in the Beacon Program are an integral part of the effort to improve health outcomes, lower health care costs, and most importantly, make the lives of children and families better. Through research and experience, social workers have developed tools for assessment and intervention that support families navigating difficult situations. In this presentation, social workers will share knowledge about this emerging field with other social workers and health care workers.
Two-hour Expanded Session

4.4 Abortion at the Intersection: Class, Race, Gender and the Politics of Reproductive Health
Julie A. Burkhart, MA
Access to abortion care is determined by location and socio-economic status. No other part of health care is as highly regulated and inaccessible to entire swaths of the population as abortion. Restrictions on abortion care disenfranchises women from all walks of life, which is politically motivated.

5.1 Photovoice, continued.
Amy Kalb, DSW, MSW
Dasha Shamrova, MSW, MPA
Two-hour Expanded Session

5.2 Treatment Planning as Safety Planning
Nathan D. Croy, LCMFT
It is time to think about safety in a new way. A holistic idea of safety that includes spiritual, sexual, economic, social, relational, physical, and psychological aspects of people allows for the creation of more effective and personalized care. The idea of safety planning is not disparate from treatment planning and, as research has shown, is only effective when integrated with treatment. This presentation will teach practitioners how to create meaningful treatment/safety plans that will increase insight and autonomy in individuals and families by looking at the history of safety planning, obstacles to successful implementations, current research, and instruction on how to create their own safety plan.
This session is pending approval for two (2) hours of contact hours for professional diagnostics requirements.

5.4 The Effects of Animal Assisted Activities on College Students Before/After a Final Exam
JoAnn Jarolmen, PhD, LCSW
This presentation explains JoAnn Jarolmen's study on the effects of Animal-Assisted Activities (AAA) on student exam anxiety. After exploring the effects of AAA by comparing student blood pressure readings before and after interacting with therapy dogs, results showed statistical significance for blood pressure reduction. Both the methodology and results of this innovative approach to addressing academic retention among students experiencing debilitating test anxiety will be provided to session participants. The presenter will also share her interdisciplinary work examining bio-psycho-social stress factors and plans for future expansion of the study.

6.1 Ketamine for Mood and Pain Disorders
Sonia Slaba, DNAP, CRNA, APRN-C
Jason Burk, APRN-C, CRNA
Ketamine has been shown to improve many mood disorders in days compared to traditional antidepressants which may take weeks, as well as treat chronic pain conditions. This presentation will discuss some of the most common mood and pain disorders, review ketamine pharmacology, and how ketamine can provide depression and pain relief within days. We will discuss the background of ketamine as an anesthetic and which patients may be candidates for ketamine.
This session is pending approval for one (1) hour of contact hours for professional diagnostics requirements.

6.4  Title to Be Determined
Liz Hamor, M.Ed.

Liz Hamor has been a social activist for more than 20 years. Starting her career in education, Liz worked in low-income schools in Emporia, KS, and San Antonio, TX, and continually advocated for her students and their families who faced barriers with education, language and income before starting her family with her husband.

Becoming a stay-at-home parent didn’t stop her advocacy, though. In 2013, Liz started the Greater Wichita Chapter of GLSEN, a national organization that works to ensure all students feel safe, valued, and respected in K-12 schools regardless of sexual orientation, gender identity and/or gender expression.

Since then, Liz and her team of volunteers have been working with schools, families and students to create safe places for ALL students. GLSEN provides resources for student-led GSAs (Gender and Sexuality Alliances) in schools, professional development for school staff, and advocacy for students who face discrimination or intimidation in their schools. Liz also served on the board for Equality Kansas – South Central Chapter for two years and was the Grand Marshal in the 2016 Wichita Pride parade.
