

Wichita State University Honors College Governance Bylaws

Revised by the Honors College Student Council, March 12, 2020

Approved by the Honors Faculty Council April 10, 2020

Faculty and student participation in University and College governance is vital to the proper functioning of the University. Faculty interest in direction and development of the Honors College not only reflects their formal right to contribute to University decision making but indicates their responsibility to do so as professional scholars and researchers.

The Honors College offers opportunity for faculty and student participation in college governance. At the college level the major contexts for faculty participation in the determination of college-wide policy are meetings of the college faculty and students (the General Assembly), the University Honors College Council comprised of the Honors College Student Council and the Honors College Faculty Council as well as such committees as it may form, the Appeals Committee, the Scholarship committee, and ad hoc committees as may be created.

The Scott, Foresman Robert's Rules of Order Newly Revised by Henry M. Robert, revision by Sarah Corbin Robert with the assistance of others (Glenview, IL: Scott, Foresman, 1981), will serve as the parliamentary guide for the General Assembly and any other agencies of college governance which do not provide otherwise for such a guide; this guide may be replaced by another at the discretion of the governance agency in question.

Section 1 –Description

The Wichita State Honors College aims to prepare students for innovative work in a complex society. We are located in the middle of the nation in a city known for entrepreneurs and aviation. We are at the heart of an urban university with high research activity and a commitment to benefit the region and beyond. Honors College students and faculty reflect these characteristics, seeking the breadth and depth a university offers, along with the perspective and attributes that will enrich their lives and the lives of others.

Honors students and faculty engage in intellectual inquiry and debate and enjoy strong support for exploration, discovery, and community service. They pursue meaningful work in Honors seminars and inter-disciplinary tracks. They apply what they have learned in class to Honors research and creative activity, internships, student exchange and study abroad. Students are encouraged to meet with the Honors College Dean, Faculty, and Advisors to design a program that meets their academic needs and professional goals.

Faculty from academic colleges and the library are invited to experiment in Honors by proposing topics-based seminars, colloquia and co-curricular activities.

Section 2—Administration
