What is one memory or skill you took from your study abroad experience?

There are so many. One of the most useful was having to learn walking routes and public transportation systems to get anywhere. Coming from a place where we don't do those things often opened up my worldview. A city looks different when you walk or take the train rather than driving.

What advice would you give to someone who is debating studying abroad?

Attend information sessions, research the countries you're interested in seeing, talk to others who have studied abroad before. Plan ahead and consider your budget now
